

Browning is a well known and respected name among bow hunters and for this year they have developed a line of products where the technical features are perfectly blended with a nice design and aggressive lines. One of the most practical features in the Browning line is the possibility to change the draw length without the need of a bow press.

For 2007 beside the Rage and Discovery bows that have been good sellers in the past season there are two new bows that will certainly capture a lot of attention. On one hand there is the Myst that is a very compact bow and on the other hand the Micro Midas 4 that with its 10 inches of draw length adjustment is going to be the ideal bow for youngsters.
